FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MartinCSI Earns Control System Integrators Association's Certification for the Fifth Consecutive Time

Plain City, Ohio (April 22, 2016) – MartinCSI announces their completion of the Control Systems Integrators Association (CSIA) “Best Practices and Benchmarks” recertification. This is the fifth consecutive time MartinCSI has passed the CSIA Certification audit process.

The Control System Integrators Association is a worldwide not-for-profit organization that has more than 400 member firms in 27 countries. It's their vision for “industries everywhere have access to low-risk, safe and successful applications of automation technology.” CSIA Certification is key for clients to identify successful system integration businesses. Their comprehensive certification audit is completed by an independent third-party consulting firm that assesses performance in 9 business areas: General Management, Human Resources, Marketing/Business Development, Financial Management, Project Management, Supporting Activities, System Development Lifecycle, Quality Assurance, and Service and Support. The CSIA Best Practices and Benchmarks manual contains 300 guidelines, and a company must pass 79 audit criteria to be certified. The criteria is considered “necessary for operating a successful control systems integration company.”

“Obtaining the certification a fifth consecutive time is a testament to MartinCSI's serious commitment to continuous improvement. Congratulations for reaching this important milestone. This was not an easy task and we commend all of your employees who contributed to and participated in this accomplishment. Keep up the good work”, mentioned Jose M. Rivera, CSIA CEO. “By supporting the CSIA Certification program MartinCSI is not only helping their own company, they are also elevating the playing field for the entire control systems integration community.”

“We are happy to have passed our fifth CSIA audit and to achieve our highest score ever.” said Bill Sellitto, Vice President of MartinCSI. “We couldn't have accomplished the certification without the hard work of our leadership team and continued commitment of all of our employees.”

Hiring CSIA Certified companies is the best way directors of manufacturing, plant operations managers and other industry leaders know they are choosing and working with a professional and capable control system integrator. For a company to maintain their CSIA certification, they must successfully pass an audit every three years.
